

Archie Mc Burnie enlists in the army in 1939, his wife Jane and children move from their idyllic cottage on the Cairnmuir estate in the soft rolling countryside of south west Scotland where they lived for ten years, to some shabby rooms in the town of Durrisbridge. Isolated and lonely from her friends at Cairnmuir, food short, money scarce and Archie drinking the money becoming aggressive. Just when Jane thought things couldnt get worse, her youngest daughter contracted Tuberculosis and she found she was pregnant. Tuberculosis has such a stigma
